THE STORY UNTRUE

That England Was Likely to Get Possession of Hawaii.

NO CHANGES ARE CONTEMPLATED.

Mr. Cleghorn Disposes of Some Rumors About Queen Lillinokalani's Kingdom--The Sandwich Islanders Like their Condition and are Friendly to America.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 22 .- Mr. A. S. Cleghorn, the collector general of customs of the Hawaiian Islands, who has been in the city for a day or two, left for San Francisco en route for Honolulu. Mr. Cleghorn is the father of Victoria Kaiulaui, the heir apparent to the Hawaiian throne, and is a man of consequence in the government. His visit to Washington just now has been a gource of satisfaction to the President and the State Department. He was given a reception by the President yesterday, at which the condition of affairs at Hawnii was discussed.

at Hawani was discussed.

I met Mr. Cleghorn to-day and found him very willing to talk on the present state of attairs in Queen Lillinokalani's lingdom, and the relations between the United States and Hawaii.

"In the first place," said Mr. Cleghorn, "I want to deny the reports that the property of th here, "I want to deny the reports that have been circulated respecting the regaing queen's health. I have been in constant mail communication with Honelulu since my departure June 30 last, and up to the last letter received the queen's health has been particular-ly good. I, of course, am in a position to know, being the brother-in-law of her She is not subject to heart e, and the stories that have been assume, and the stories that have been circulated about her by a lot of irre-sponsible people are idle, false tales. The queen downger—King Kalakaua's reliet—is in bad health."

NO THOUGHT OF BRITISH SUPREMACY.

"Is there any foundation for the re perfed growth of English influence in Hawaii and the eventual annexation of liawaii and the eventual annexation of the islands by Great Britain."

"Not the slightest," said Mr. Cleg-horn, most emphatically. "I have just had the estisfaction of giving the Presi-dent and state department a denial of these silly rumors and an assurance that no government in the world is so close to Hawaii as the United States. There is no thought of British suprem-ney."

"Does not your position as an Englishman and the father of the future queen give some weight to the report?"

"Not at all," warmly responded Mr. Cleghorn. "I was born in Scotland, but left that country when but four and half years old. I went to Honolulu when a boy of lifteen and have lived in the country of my adoption forty years. My sympathies are not with Great Britain, but with the United States, as it is to this country that Hawaii must look for advantageous trade relations. It is felly to talk of British annexation. No one of any influence or importance in Hawaii takes any stock in such stories." "What about annexation to the United States?"

"There is no possibility of such an

"There is no possibility of such an event. There is a very small number of ear people in favor of annexation. The fact is that our people are content with the present form of government, and there is no likelihood of a change. We shall remain a free and independent country. Even if we were willing to become a part of the United States, I very much doubt if this government would receive us. Such an addition would entail on your country a large expense in the proper protection of your far off possession. It is safe to say that neither Great Britain nor the United States will gain possession of the United States will gain possession of the Hawaiian Islands."

NOT BEADY FOR A CHANGE.

"Is the form of government likely to be changed for that of a republic?"

"Emphatically no," said Mr. Cleghorn. "The adoption of a republican form of government would mean annex-ation to the United States at once. The people are not ready for such a change. They are more prosperous under a mon-archy than they would be under a re-nublic."

Mr. Cleghorn in speaking of our com-mercial relations with Huwaii, said that a new treaty was now under considera-tion which he boped would remedy some of the evils of the McKinley bill. The people of the islands feel that they, have been treated year shubbilly by the and which he hoped would remedy some of the evils of the McKinley bill. The people of the islands feet that they have been treated very shabbily by the United States. Under the treaty that has now been in force several years, the free admission of 'Hawaiian sugar into cut ports secured free entry of nearly every article of commerce from the United States. The duty was taken off agricultural implements, iron and everything manufactured from it; cotton and cotton manufactures and many other articles. Now by the passage of the McKinley bill the duty has been taken off all foreign sugar and Hawaii has lost her advantage.

According to Mr. Cleghorn the injury to their sugar trade will amount to about $5,000,000 annually. They hope under the new treaty that some recompense will be made for their loss. Being the weaker of the two, however, she has to submit.

Mr. Cleghorn spoke very hopefully of a cable line to the islands and expected to see it an accomplished fact before many years. Mr. Cleghorn is naturally very proud of his daughter, Princess Kainlaui, whom he has just left in England to complete her studies. She is a tail, handsome girl of sixteen, and already shows much strength of character. She will finish her education in 1803, when her father expects to accompany her on an extended tour through Europe and the United States. They expect to reach Honolulu on October 13, 1803, when the princess will be of age and will take the oath as Queen of the Sandwich Islands. If the Queen Regent, Lilikuokalani, should die before Kaiulaui becomes of age, and does not provide in her will for any Queen Regent, then the regency will be named by the representatives and nobles. Mr. Cleghorn does not anticipate any occasion for such action, as Queen Liliuokalani bids fair to live many years.

The company will accept no terms except the unconditional repeal of the old ordinance, and propose to move on the citizens of this place by cutting off the supply at the time indicated unless their conditions are complied with. Mr. Harry Northwood had an interview with the officers of the company in which they agreed to furnish manufacturing establishments of this city with what they may need at the same rate as now charged. They stated that the Northwood paid more not money into the treasury of the company than is realized from all the private consumers in this city, Bridgeout and Bollaire and that there the company than is realized from all the private consumers in this city, Bridgeport and Bellaire, and that there was no disposition to interfere with existing arrangements, for the present at least. Train thirty-two, on the C., L. & W. railroad, was badly wrecked at Kidd's Mines, nine miles north of this place, yesterday noon. The train consisted of coal and was hauled by engine No. 28, in charge of Engineer John Shane. They were running very rapidly, and when at Kidd's Mines station the locomotive left the track, without a second's warning, and turned toward a high embankment. Engineer Shane saw his perilous position, and whistling loudly for brakes, reversed his engine and threw on all steam possible. This done, he and the firemen jumped for their lives, and not a second too soon; just as they did so the locomotive, with its huge wheels spinning around in the backward motion, plunged down the embankment into the creek, twenty-five feet below. It was followed in its wild descent by two car londs of coal, which piled themselves on top of the locomotive in a broken, twisted heap of wreckage. Fortunately no one went down with it, and the balance of the train came to a standstill, partly derailed, in the roadbed. The cars were gotten out of the way without delaying passenger trains, and a wreek crew is now at work getting the locomotive out of the creek. The carse of the accident was found to be a broken rail. Rumors were circulated last night that two more wreeks occurred on the same line yestorday, one at Massillon and one at wrecks occurred on the same line yes-terday, one at Massillon and one at Freeport. They were both reported to be freight wrecks, and no one hurt, but it was impossible to get any facts or particulars regarding either of them.
